

Western Connecticut State University

WCSU Mission: To be accessible, responsive, and creative intellectual resource for the people and institutions

Department of Computer Science

CS Department mission is to offer a broad and up-to-date curriculum that will prepare students for life in this information age, and provide a curriculum and instruction that students will find valuable in the near future.

Computer Science Major

A solid foundation in computer science, including software and hardware fundamentals. Computer Science department focuses on providing students with those skills necessary for an entry-level position.

Computer Science Minors

Web Development

A strong programming background in addition to other web related skills; acts as a bridge between the Computer Science and business disciplines

Informatics

The study of computer-based strategies for information production and retrieval; acts as a bridge between the Computer Science and natural and physical science disciplines

Security

A foundation in programming coupled with information systems security; acts as a bridge between the Computer Science and Management Information Systems discipline

Digital Media

Skills needed to organize and convey information and meaning using either still or animated images; acts as a bridge between Computer Science and Art disciplines

Web page created by < your name >

For contacts < your e-mail address >